

GO AFTER BIG STEEL PLANTS

Maysville Business Men After Andrews Steel Plant—Mass Meeting To Be Held Friday Evening.

It has just become known that Maysville has a splendid opportunity to secure one of the biggest manufacturing plants in the Ohio valley and steps have been taken by a number of our progressive business men to make investigations and arrange a proposition to be made to this great corporation.

The Andrews Steel Company, of Newport, which has had much labor trouble in that city recently, is going to move from Newport just as soon as they find a suitable location and can make the necessary arrangements.

As soon as this fact became known in Maysville several of our business men got into communication with Mr. Joseph Andrews, the president of the concern, and informed him that Maysville would be delighted to have the plant locate here. Mr. Sherman Arn, who acted as the spokesman for the local business men, has received a letter from Mr. Andrews which is very favorable and Mr. Andrews in personal letters to friends in Maysville who have written him in regard to coming to Maysville, has expressed a willingness to consider a proposition from our city.

The Andrews Steel Company employs between 2,500 and 4,000 men and operates twelve months in the year. The pay roll is between $80,000 and $110,000 per week. The institution would make Maysville one of the most influential cities in the Ohio Valley and would be the beginning of just exactly what Maysville has for years needed to be and that is a manufacturing city. The employment of this number of men in Maysville would change the whole complexion of things and would put into circulation thousands of dollars each week which would be a great boost for our merchants and would help every man, woman and child in the whole of the city and community.

It is understood that the plant would require about ten acres of land for their plant and such a plot of ground could probably be procured in Maysville so that the plant could be given railroad connection direct to the plant.

Another location that is being seriously considered along with Maysville, it is learned, is Chinnville, Ky., near Greenup, but Maysville has many advantages over Chinnville. While they both have the C. & O. Railroad and the Ohio River, Maysville has the L. & N. railroad and it is understood that the Andrews plant has quite a trade in the South. Another improvement Maysville has is in the fact that we are isolated to some extent from the steel plants while Chinnville is located very close to the Ironton and Ashland steel plants where there is often labor agitation and trouble and from which the Andrews company is endeavoring to escape in leaving Newport.

Local business men who have taken up this matter with the Andrews officials, are quite enthusiastic over the probability of bringing the plant to Maysville. On no proposition has there been so much enthusiasm and in fact, Maysville has never before had such an opportunity. The bringing of the plant to Maysville would not only bring employment to our people and employment that will pay them well but will increase our population largely. It will bring a large number of skilled workmen, men of high caliber and their families. The plant would certainly bring a boom to our city and yet it would not be a boom of short duration for when the plant is located, it will be a permanent affair.

Arrangements are being made to have a mass meeting of the business men and citizens of Maysville and vicinity in an effort to get something definitely decided upon so that a delegation can visit Mr. Andrews and his directors and offer them a definite proposition to come to Maysville with their plant. Such an offer must be a liberal one for in these times communities are bidding high for such plants as the Andrews company maintains.

Mr. Sherman Arn has received this letter from Mr. Joseph Andrews, president of the company:

"We are in receipt of your letter of the 9th and advise that you have been rightly informed that we have been considering the relocation of our plants, due to labor troubles, and the unfriendly attitude of some of the officials of this city, and their antagonism, and that of their friends.

"The relocation of a plant is one, however, that has to be carefully considered in regard to the cost of assembling raw material needed in the manufacture of its finished products, and the cost of delivering its finished products to its trade and consumers."

"The more important raw material items we use are as follows:

- "1. Coal, yearly consumption about 300,000 tons;
- "2. Pig iron, yearly requirements about 120,000 to 150,000 tons;
- "3. Scrap iron, and metal, yearly requirements about 150,000 to 200,000 tons;
- "4. Limestone, yearly requirements about 30,000 to 35,000 tons;
- "5. Iron ore;
- "6. Fire brick;
- "7. Flour Spar;
- "Instead of item No. 1, coal, we could use natural gas, provided it is any cheaper.

"The products that we manufacture are:

- "1. Sheet bars;
- "2. Special steel billets;
- "3. Black and galvanized sheets;
- "4. Formed roofings, metal ceilings, conductor pipe, eaves trough, metal culverts and a complete line of other sheet metal products.

"Our production, when operating in full, on cold metal, is about 300,000 gross tons of ingots, and our production of hot metal or molten pig iron would be about 33% to 50% greater, about 60% of our products of steel is used in the form of sheet bars in our own finishing mill, namely, the Newport Rolling Mill Company, we would, however, be interested in the freight rates on our surplus tonnage of steel we would have to dispose of, either sheet bars or billets, likewise, the important thing to consider is the outbound freight rates to consuming markets on item No. 3, i. e. black and galvanized sheets, also, item No. 4, formed roofings, metal ceilings, etc.

"Our maximum number of employees is about 2500. Our total pay-roll averages, when running full, from $80,000.00 to $110,000.00 per week.

"We would be pleased to have you investigate and furnish us with complete information on inbound freight rates or raw material that a steel plant and rolling mill would use, also, outbound freight rates on the products we manufacture, also, what you can do regarding a site for location. Inducements that you would offer that would serve to attract a plant to your city, etc."

Arrangements have been made to have a mass meeting of business men and citizens interested at the Council Chamber on next Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

The first day's presentation of the big feature picture "Over the Hill" at the Pastime Monday was seen by great crowds and all who saw it pronounced it the greatest mother picture they have ever seen.

Aside from the ennobling sentiment of the great picture, there is some splendid character delineation throughout.

Noel Tearle, who created the role of Isaac, the hypocritical son, was confronted recently on Broadway in New York, by a motion picture devotee, who not only recognized Tearle after having seen him in the picture, but admitted that he wished to satisfy himself that the "crooked son in the movies could not possibly be so crooked and despicable in private life."

"I have never hated anybody so much in my life as I did you in that picture," declared the "fan" and if I could have been with the black sheep son when he dragged you down the street, I certainly would have made the picture more realistic than ever. Apparently, you are a mighty nice fellow, and it is hard for me to understand how you can make yourself so thoroughly detested while acting in that picture."

Tearle agreed with his critic that the role was somewhat "distasteful," adding that he construed the young man's remarks as a very high compliment to his ability as a motion picture artist. Tearle is a brother of Conway Tearle, also of screen fame.

STOLEN WATCH IS RETURNED TO POLICE BY MAIL

Watch Stolen From the Home of Mr. Cleveland Smart Several Months Ago Is Returned Tuesday.

Chief of Police James Mackey Tuesday received by Parcel Post a ladies' gold watch which was stolen several months ago from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Smart in the West End.

The police have been endeavoring to locate the stolen watch for several weeks or since they located other articles of jewelry stolen from the Smart home and which was returned to them by persons who claimed they had received the stolen articles from William Kellum, who is now being held in the local jail awaiting the grand jury.

Only a few days ago Officer Carpenter went to Cincinnati and had a long talk with a relative of Kellum who he had suspected of having the watch. The relative denied that the watch was in his possession although the officers had reasonable grounds to believe that this relative had the watch and had given it to a woman. The relative was advised that unless the watch was returned he would be prosecuted for receiving stolen goods Tuesday morning the watch arrived by parcel post from Cincinnati but with it there was no communication.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

More than a hundred years after his birth and nearly fifty-seven years after his death, Abraham Lincoln with each passing of this anniversary moves to a higher place in the admiration not only of his own country, but of all peoples.

Lincoln has ceased to be merely an American here; he belongs now to the world. As men of all climes and nations struggle for the more effective application of the principles of justice, that are synonymous with the principles of democracy, Lincoln gains a higher fame and exerts an ever-widening influence.

We are sufficiently removed from the scenes of his activities and his achievements to have the natural human frailties that must be a part of every man's life fade from memory and to behold the ideal elements of his character.

It is true we may easily recall Lincoln as he was known to his contemporaries; we need make but little research to find him the subject of criticism as venomous as has ever been visited upon any public man. It is possible, of course, to see him again in the arena of practical politics, under the necessity of dealing with men of different types and varying motives. But as the years pass on, this country and the whole world will regard these things as a part of the mortal Lincoln. The immortal Lincoln is the idealistic Lincoln, the Lincoln we link with the idea of the Union, with the idea of the preservation of the government and the consolidation of the American states into a great nation destined for world leadership, the Lincoln of gentle spirit, the Lincoln with a sense of justice tempered with mercy.

We will leave the more sordid things of his life more and more to the few who concern themselves with the details of the musty records of the past, while the popular imagination will more and more exalt the idealism of his time and give his country a valid title to something more than pride in material achievements.

It is true that the result of Lincoln's work are great in purely material measurement, but they are greater in the heritage of idealism he has left to posterity.

One of the lessons we may learn from this Lincoln anniversary is that it requires time to permit the popular mind to distinguish between the ideal and the sordid—to forget the common human qualities that have really distinguished his leadership.

No matter what may have been man's biological development, his sociological history has not been a record of constant, unchecked advance. There are mountain peaks, and valleys amounting to canyons of darkness, in his sociological career. It is perhaps fortunate for Lincoln's place in history that he fell by the hand of an assassin; it is certain he would not have approved the deep descent of those who exerted power immediately after him. The man who endeavored to carry out the Lincoln policy narrowly escaped the disgrace of removal from the presidency. Though Lincoln would have been much stronger than Johnson, it is by no means certain that he would have been a match for those extremists who were ready to ride a storm of passion.

History can not hold Lincoln responsible for what followed his death, and a martyr's halo in all probability saved him from the humiliation of defeat at the hands of his own party, at the same time saving his name to all posterity as one of the most notable exponents of American idealism.

THE BONUS BY ITSELF.

President Harding is showing good generalship in his handling of the bonus questions. It was an adroit manoeuvre on his part that caused it to be side tracked last summer when it was in a fair way to be forced through. Now he has succeeded in having it divorced from the foreign loan refunding bill, which is to be taken up as a separate matter and handled on its merits with some chance of sensible legislation being put through.

At to the bonus, the President insists that it shall carry its own financing scheme. He has expressed no objection to the sales tax method of raising the necessary money, but probably holds to the belief that when the Senate finance committee gets right down to the job of providing for the payment of the bonus it will find itself up against a pretty hard proposition. By that time the attention of the people of the country will be focused upon the fact that they will be expected to go into their pockets and produce at least $3,000,000, 000, which would mean something like $30 apiece for each man, woman and child in the country. This, on top of all other taxation, would be a serious proposition, for few of the women, and none of the children would pay their share, and a great many men would also be eliminated as taxpayers. Hence it would fall heavily upon the business interests of the country.

If that bonus were to be juggled through as part of another bill it would escape public attention, but by itself it will open up public discussion in a way that may change the entire situation. If the people actually want the bonus then let them be prepared to pay for it.—The New York Commercial.

TAXES AND THE BONUS

The statement of the Secretary of the Treasury on the proposed soldiers' bonus bill leaves no doubt that additional taxation will be necessary if Congress should approve a bond issue of three billions or more. The possibility of paying the interest on bonus bonds out of the interest received from foreign Governments on the American loans does not appeal to Secretary Mellon; he shows that the interest on the European war loans, if any is received, is needed for meeting the payments on Liberty bonds. The long and short of it is that another load will be placed upon American taxpayers if a bonus bill is passed and approved by the President.

No argument for or against the bonus is made by the Secretary in his letter to the chairman of the House ways and means committee. The expediency of bonus legislation is left to the decision of Congress. The financial condition of the Treasury, however, is shown in language that cannot be misunderstood. The Government has no funds for the bonus proposed; instead of a surplus a deficit is in prospect, and the enormous refunding operations now being carried on, the Secretary says, make "dangerous in the extreme to attempt to finance the expenditure involved in the bonus through new borrowings." The significance of the warning should be noted by Congress; it is evident that the advocates of the bonus cannot evade the issue of taxation.—Providence Journal.

PROUD OF ARMY

Army Renders Heroic Service at Great Knickerbocker Theater
Disaster at Washington.

"The people of the United States ought to be proud of their army," said President Cuno H. Rudolph, of the Board of Commissioners, of the District of Columbia. He added that many are now living who would undoubtedly have died in the Knickerbocker Theater disaster at Washington, on January 28th last, in which 95 persons were killed and 150 injured by the falling of the snow-covered roof, had it not been for the prompt and efficient assistance given by the regular troops under Brigadier General H. H. Bandholtz, United States Army, who commands the District of Washington.

In an official communication embodying this, Mr. Rudolph thanks the army for its work in securing the injured and bringing out the dead. He asks that this expression of the gratitude of the Commissioners, on behalf of the citizens, be made of official record. In referring to the work of the army, Mr. Rudolph said:

"Every citizen in the District of Columbia owes a debt of gratitude to the army for the prompt, workmanlike and unselfish manner in which it responded to the call for help during the Knickerbocker Theater disaster — a debt which our people can never repay. The army furnished hundreds of willing hands and provided the tools with which they worked to rescue with all possible speed the scores of dead and dying victims trapped in the mass of snow-covered wreckage. Just as the army answered after the Johnstown Flood, the Galveston disaster, the San Francisco Fire, the floods at Dayton and Pueblo, and in the recent West Virginia mine disasters, so its men came to the rescue when Washington needed help the most. It has been reported to me that the first acetylene torch and the gas to work it, the first jacks, picks and shovels, were all rushed to the scene of suffering in Quartermaster Corps trucks by Quartermaster men. It is abundant proof that our army has its mission in peace as well as in war, and the Nation can count on its in the future as it has in the past. I thank God that the regulars were as close at hand when they were so urgently needed in the Nation's Capital."

General Bandholtz has supplemented this with a letter to Major General H. L. Rogers, The Quartermaster General, concerning the work of the Quartermaster Corps, the big supply department of the Army, in which he says:

"Every officer of your Corps on duty with this command responded immediately and effectively, and the services of all of them, as well as their personnel, is deserving of the highest praise. They worked untiringly during the thirty-six hours of relief work and their prompt assistance was the direct cause for the saving of many lives. It must be to you a cause of much gratification that all of the members of your corps upheld in such a fine manner the traditions of the United States Army."

INCOME-TAX FACTS.

Forms for making returns of income for the year 1921 have been revised and simplified, and contain instructions which if carefully followed will be of material aid to taxpayers in the avoidance of errors.

Many of these errors are due to reduction of the personal exemption allowed a head of a family, defined by Treasury regulations as a "person who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or by adoption, or whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependents is based upon some moral or legal obligation."

The exemptions allowed a head of a family under the revenue act of 1921 are the same as granted a married person—$2,500 where the net income for 1921 was $5,000 or less and $2,000 where the net income exceeded $5,000. Circumstances surrounding each individual case determine largely whether a person is entitled to such exemption.

A single person—the term including widowers, widows, and persons not living with wife or husband—is the head of a family if he is the sole support of one or more relatives living in the same household with him, and if he exercises control of household affairs. A married person living with husband or wife, in addition to the exemptions allowed such persons, can not claim an exemption as the head of a family, irrespective of the support of others in the household.

Whether a person who does not continuously live in the same household with dependent relatives is entitled to the exemptions depends upon the character of the separation. If a parent is away on business part of the year or a child or other dependent is away on a visit, the common home being maintained, the exemptions may be claimed. If a parent is compelled to maintain his dependent children with relatives, or in a boarding house, the exemption may still apply. If, however, the dependent continuously and without necessity makes his home elsewhere than with his benefactor, the latter is not the head of a family, irrespective of the question of support.

A taxpayer who is not the head of a family may still be allowed the exemption of $400 for each person dependent upon him for chief support. If such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective.

Following are concrete examples of taxes due under the revenue act of 1921 and circumstances governing exemptions allowed a head of a family and for dependents:

A married couple living together with two children, 10 and 12 years old, had a net income for 1921 of $1,500. Their tax is $48, which is 4 per cent on $1,200, the amount of their net income less the exemption of $2,500 for married persons whose net income was less than $5,000, plus $400 for each dependent. The tax on the same income for the year 1920 was $84.00.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanné Price

New York — The world is due for another shock about what on earth we are coming to, if an exhibition of modiste's models held the other day means anything at all. Stockings had been completely eliminated from the display of new spring and summer styles, and linen street suits, tulle evening frocks and afternoon dresses of thin crepe appeared innocently enough over ankles—to put it moderately—as devoid of stockings as any South Sea Islander. With the street suits, red kid slippers were worn, and the effect was not greatly different from that of thin flesh-colored crepe stockings, except that one missed the seam up the back.

One of the most envious men in this great city is Frederick Ricker, of the West 123rd street police station. It is not often in this life that even a policeman has the sense of satisfaction which must have come to him the other day. He arrested a man for failing to display a 1922 automobile license plate on his car. And the man was his landlord—who had tried to raise his rent $8 a month last fall! "Don't you know me? I'm your landlord," exclaimed the peculiarly optimistic motorist when Ricker stopped

NATURE TELLS YOU

As Many a Maysville Reader Knows Too Well.

When the kidneys are weak. The urine is nature's index. Infrequent or too frequent passage. Nature tells you about it. Other disorders suggest kidney ills. Doan's Kidney Pills are for disordered kidneys. Ask your neighbor. Maysville people testify to their worth. Charles Kennan, retired farmer, 81 Wood street, Maysville, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills several different times within the last few years and never had them fail to do me good. My kidneys were in a mighty bad shape the first time I used them. The secretions I passed were bloody and burned terribly. My back kept me in misery during the time the attack lasted and I was feeling generally run down. I went to Wood & Son's Drug Store and got a couple boxes of them. This medicine reached my case at once and cured me up in good shape. I have always relied upon Doan's ever since. I use a few now and then to regulate my kidneys and they never fail me." Price 60 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kennan had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

One of the landmarks of New York City has just been taken from us. For years visitors to this city have been shown the two great trees in the yard of No. 462 West 22nd street, under which George P. Morris, American poet, wrote "Woodman, Spare That Tree!" The old Woodward mansion where Morris lived at that time, stands in one of the few remaining blocks in downtown New York — old Chelsea Village — where there are any grounds where trees can find room to stand, and lovers of American tradition and American literature have hoped that those two trees would live undisturbed for many years. Just last year, however, the trees died, and it was decided hot other day to have them cut down. Martin L. Davey, former Congressman from Ohio, who is devoting himself now to saving the lives of trees and adding beauty to the country, was called in for expert opinion. "A year ago the trees could have been saved," he said. "But they were neglected too long. Now they are quite dead." The neglect of these trees has led groups of men and women in this city who are interested in preserving our historical treasures to agitate for a movement to save other old trees before it is too late.

"The Nest," a drama from the French of Paul Gerdard, which William A. Brady presented the other night at the Forty-eighth Street Theater, is a welcome addition to the worth while plays being shown this season. It is a penetrating study of families and of homes with the interrelation of parents and their grown children as its particular theme. It is realism in the true sense and realism worth thinking about. Lucille Watson plays the part of the mother and plays it brilliantly as she always does any role she is in. Frank Burbeck as the father is a close second to Miss Watson in his grasp and interpretation of the part.

There is something ironically appropriate about St. Valentine's Day being set for the date upon which Herbert T. Andrews, who saved rent by keeping both his wives in the same apartment in Jersey City, will have to explain to the court why he is $1,350 behind in his alimony to his first wife. Names that winked at New Yorkers from the electric signs of fold Tony Pastor's as long as thirty years ago will be introduced to a present-day audience when a vaudeville act is launched shortly entitled "Stars of Yesterday." It will feature Barney Fagan, who wrote and sang "My Gal Is a High Born Lady;" Joe Sullivan, author of "Where Did You Get That Hat," which he will sing once more; the original Corrine, and others equally well known by the previous generation.

NEW CIRCULAR ENCOURAGES JUNIORS TO RAISE POULTRY.

Lexington, Ky. — In order to help farm boys and girls of the state get started with purebred poultry, the College of Agriculture has issued a new circular, dealing with the hatching and raising of chicks, which is being distributed to interested youngsters. The project for which the circular was designed has proved to be one of the most popular with boys and girls who are enrolled in junior agricultural club work, more than 4,628 of them having been engaged in poultry raising in 1921.

The new publication, which was written by J. R. Smyth, a member of the college poultry department, outlines the problems of raising chicks from the selection and hatching of eggs to the preparation of an exhibit. It contains pointers on the care of the setting hen and rationing for chicks as well as number of other facts of interest to adult as well as junior poultrymen. It may be obtained free by asking the Experiment Station at Lexington for Circular No. 110.

Quit Laxatives, Purges; Try NR

NR Tonight—Tomorrow Feel Right

It is a mistake to continually dose yourself with so-called laxative pills, cathartics and force bowel action. It weakens the bowels and liver and makes constant dosing necessary. Why don't you begin right today to overcome your constipation and get your system in such shape that daily purging will be unnecessary? You can do so if you get a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one each night for a week or so. NR Tablets do much more than merely cause pleasant easy bowel action. This medicine acts upon the digestive as well as eliminative organs—promotes good digestion, causes the body to get the nourishment from all the food you eat, gives you a good, hearty appetite, strengthens the liver, overcomes biliousness, regulates kidney and bowel action and gives the whole body a thorough cleaning out. This accomplished you will not have to take medicine every day. An occasional NR tablet will keep your body in condition and you can always feel your best. Try Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and prove this. It is the best bowel medicine that you can use and costs only 25c per box, containing enough to last twenty-five days. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

LEGUMES ARE SOLUTION TO KENTUCKY'S SOIL PROBLEMS

Lexington, Ky. —More legume crops to replace a portion of the non-legume crops on Kentucky farms is the one big hope in economically building up the State's soils to a higher state of fertility, according to recommendations being made by soil and crop specialists at the College of Agriculture. Legumes, such as clover add to the fertility of the soil by drawing nitrogen from the air while non-legume crops such as timothy hay, wheat and corn, draw on the soil for all their plant food, according to the specialists. The extensive use of non-legume crops over a long period of years has proved a heavy drain on the fertility of Kentucky soils, they say.

In pointing out the importance of legumes in a system of crop improvement, the specialists are showing farmers that more than two-thirds of the plant food contained in clover is taken from the air. Every ton of this crop takes only $3.00 worth of plant food from the soil while the remaining $8.00 worth, which it contains, is taken from the air.

On the other hand, a bushel of corn removes one pound of nitrogen, nearly one-fifth of a pound of phosphorus and one-fifth of a pound of potassium from the soil. This amount of plant food when purchased on the market as commercial fertilizer would cost about 25 cents or about one-half the present value of a bushel of corn.

A bushel of wheat removes one and one-half pounds of nitrogen, about one-fourth of a pound of phosphorus and one-fourth of a pound of potassium. This amount of plant food when purchased as commercial fertilizer would cost about 35 cents or one-third the present value of wheat.

A ton of timothy hay removes 24 pounds of nitrogen, three pounds of phosphorus and 24 pounds of potassium worth $7 in the form of commercial fertilizer or about one-third the market value of hay.

LUCKY LADY GODIVA

Several movie men were discussing the forthcoming super-feature "Lady Godiva," based on Tennyson's famous poem, which Wistaria Productions Inc. is to release in March through Associated Exhibitors. "She's the one, who first made birthday clothes and bareback riding a popular combination, isn't she?" asked one. "Yeah," said another, who had just been reading the press book. "She rode through Coventry which is somewhere in England, without a stitch on her back and with only her hair for a costume, on a hot or something." "Lucky she didn't do it these days," said a third, "or the censors would surely have 'junked' the picture." "How come?" chorused the others. "Oh, she might have had her hair 'bobbed'."

Columbia — Thomas Sheridan, a wealthy Cincinnati, O., oil operator driving to Columbia in his car, frightened a horse drawing a buggy driven by Mrs. Joseph W. Arnold. The vehicle was upset and Mrs. Arnold and her child were thrown out. Mrs. Arnold sustained a broken shoulder and the child's leg and arm was broken and its nose almost torn from its face. Booth are in a serious condition. Sheridan was arrested.

"UNCLE JOE" IS TO RETIRE

JOE CANNON

Washington, Feb. 14. — Having served longer than any man ever elected to the American Congress, Representative Joseph G. Cannon, of the 18th Illinois District, announced Monday that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself next fall.

Mr. Cannon is approaching his eighty-sixth milestone. If his life is spared until the end of his term on March 4, 1923, he will have rounded out forty-six years of service in the House. He broke the record for actual service more than a year ago and since that time, as he himself has explained, he "has been running along on velvet."

There were tears in the eyes of many of his colleagues when formal announcement of "Uncle Joe's" determination to retire was made on the floor by Representative Walsh, Republican, Massachusetts, described by the veteran legislator as "one of my buddies." While Mr. Walsh was speaking, Uncle Joe, sitting apart from his friends, was crouched in a seat, a big slouch hat and an overcoat protecting him from the cold.

Believing always in brevity, Mr. Cannon's statement that he soon was to conclude his public service was packed into one typewritten line of eleven words, which read: "I am not a candidate for election to the 68th Congress."

SALVAGE FROM CHILLO TO BRING ONLY $200.

Salvage from the wrecked steamboat Chillo, sunk November 17, 1921, when it struck an extension of Dam 35, near New Richmond, was found by Special Master Thomas H. Kelly to be worth about $200, which will be divided among those who lost freight. The government spent $3,782 in clearing away the hull, but the machinery saved, the special master says, is good only for the scrap pile. The value of freight lost is not known, books and accounts having been lost with the boat.

The boat was owned by the Cincinnati, Pomeroy and Charleston Packet Company, which has asked to be relieved from all damage claims save such as can be met by what is realized from the salvage.
